

Michigan's Adult Education System
- A Framework for Transformation

Transforming Michigan's Adult Education System

Life in Michigan, and indeed the world, is all about transitions: changes in the local, national, and global economies demand adaptation and innovation.

CLEG Report,
Executive Summary

This report was developed by the Adult Education Transformation Task Force (TTF). The TTF was formed in response to the 2009-2010 Section 107 legislation which directed the DELEG Department of Lifelong Learning to create an Adult Learning Planning Group. This group is made up of twenty-one individuals representing a balance of rural, urban, and suburban community adult education directors from throughout the state and advocacy leaders for adult education, English as a Second Language and adult literacy.

The Transformation Task Force was charged with recommending a comprehensive adult education delivery system that ensures all areas of the state are adequately served while fostering partnerships for creating seamless transitions between adult education, post-secondary education and employment.

The Council for Labor and Economic Growth (CLEG) Report entitled Transforming Michigan's Adult Learning Infrastructure (December 2008) was used as a reference and framework for organizing the work of the Transformation Task Force. The recommendations contained within the CLEG Report were considered in depth and language was developed in order to "operationalize" each recommendation for transforming Michigan's Adult Education system.

During the first two weeks of January 2010, a series of meetings are being held at various locations throughout the state. At these meetings, the Transformation Task Force's report will be presented and feedback and recommendations will be gathered.

After considering feedback and input from Adult Learner practitioners across Michigan, the final recommendation will be submitted to the DELEG Department of Lifelong Learning, the Senate and House appropriations subcommittees responsible for School Aid, and the Senate and House fiscal agencies.

Transform Michigan's adult learning infrastructure to create a unified strategic approach to increasing basic skills and post-secondary credential attainment.

CLEG Report,
Recommendation 1

In this report, the Transformation Task Force recommends a delivery system that will effectively transform Michigan's adult learning infrastructure. The successful implementation of this system will require multilateral support for Michigan's Adult Learner. Such support must originate from the Governor and the Legislature.

The recommendations evolved through a process that included the following steps:

First, the TTF developed a list of essential elements – factors and components to be considered as key to the success of any adult learning system.

Second, in designing this model, the TTF researched how other States are responding to the challenge issued at the Federal level. The states reviewed and studied included California, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Washington, and Wisconsin.

Third, a glossary of terms was written. As key words were defined, the members were careful to include both research and shared expertise.

The ideal of providing seamless service to the Adult Learner as he/she moves through the system remained in focus throughout the process, i.e. transitioning from basic skills learning to post-secondary training and/ or employment. Recommended program design and accountability measures reflect the sensitivity of the TTF to the needs of the Lowest Level Adult Learner for whom even the most basic academic skills are a challenge.

The following report contains a recommended delivery system for serving the Michigan Adult Learner that is both transforming and strategic: through a regional approach, multiple providers will form partnerships resulting in more effective, economical and responsive program design and delivery.

Engage a range of partners in service delivery to meet the diverse needs of adult learners.

CLEG Report,
Recommendation 8

Through the work of the Adult Education Transformation Task Force, the first steps have been taken to help the more than 1.7 million Adult Learners in Michigan who lack the basic skills needed to acquire and maintain employment that provides them with a family-sustaining wage.

With the leadership of the Governor and Legislature, DELEG can begin to communicate to the state of Michigan the urgent need for these Adults to acquire the basic skills necessary for them to go forward to post secondary training needed to maintain or improve employment. However, it is not enough to just communicate this need. The need must be addressed aggressively and strategically!

The only way to effectively address this need is for all Adult Learner service providers to work together. Viable partnerships through regionalization must be formed within which all resources can be maximized and services can be efficiently and effectively delivered.

This challenge calls for a unified strategy involving the Governor, Legislature, Adult Education, Michigan Works!, Post Secondary institutions and ALL stakeholders and the accountability must rest on the shoulders of ALL stakeholders because the Adult Learners in Michigan deserve our best!

Transforming Michigan's Adult Education System

Glossary of Terms

Access point(s): Site(s) or location(s) of services available to the adult learner.

Adult Basic Education: As defined by the federal Office of Adult and Vocational Education (OVAE): Instruction provided to adults who function below the ninth grade equivalent level in language arts and/or mathematics as determined by a DLEG approved assessment test. Adult Basic Education consists of four EFLs as defined by the National Reporting System including:

- Beginning Literacy
- Beginning Basic Education
- Low Intermediate
- High Intermediate

Advisor: Career and educational advising is a component of programs to ensure that learners understand how learning relates to working and the role of education in progressing toward their career goals. Advisors conduct intensive, persistent advising to retain and advance learners along pathways. Advisors must identify learner barriers and maintain ongoing efforts with the learner to address those barriers. Advisors must have a working knowledge of learning pathways and the requirements of programs in other agencies, particularly those that precede or follow programs offered by their agencies. In addition, advisors also serve as learner advocates and ensure that instruction staff are aware of any learning style or difficulties that require accommodations and/or career pathway interests and goals around which coursework can be contextualized. Advisors must be seen as a resource for instruction staff who may face challenges in working with individual learners. It is also important to recognize that advisors should help learners self-advocate and gain the skills necessary to navigate pathways as identified in Individual Learning Plans, seek support, and make decisions as they pursue lifelong learning. Advisors should use case management tools and techniques to facilitate learners' use of intensive support resources in helping to address personal barriers, including services like proactive advising, peer support, and college success classes. Helping learners to seek family support for learning endeavors is also crucial to success. –taken from page 34 of the CLEG Report.

An advisor generally works for an agency/provider.

Basic Skills: Skills necessary to attain a family sustaining wage in the areas of life and family, academics and employability that contributes to the State's economy.

Adult Learner: An individual who is 20 years of age or older on or before September 1 of year of enrollment and is lacking basic skills (as measured by a state-approved assessments), a GED certificate, or a high school diploma, necessary for success in post-secondary at a 100 course level or higher or employment.

Adult Learning Collaborative Board (ALCB): has strong decision-making authority for operations within their region including flexibility and ownership for how adult learning services are delivered and how the partnership is operated.

Transforming Michigan's Adult Education System

The ALCB is responsible for

- Identifying the region's characteristics including demographics, key industries, and available support services
- Determining what educational or training services should be offered
- Identifying or developing service delivery that addresses the identified needs
- Developing a manageable infrastructure for regional planning and service delivery of adult learning activities

The makeup of the regional Adult Learning Collaborative Board must include partners and stakeholders. Partners include adult education programs, Michigan Works! Agencies or other organizations with demonstrated workforce development capacity, and post-secondary education/training institutions.

Bridging: A systematic approach linking two or more programs for the transition of participants and resulting in his/her advancement. This bridging may occur between educational or employment. (Bridging may be a seamless approach depending on partnerships/cooperative arrangements in a region.)

Career Readiness Certificate: A certificate that is easily understood and nationally valued as a credential that certifies the attainment of basic workplace skills.

Extended definition: The National Career Readiness Certificate (NCRC) verifies to employers anywhere in the United States that an individual has essential core employability skills in Reading, Math, and Locating Information. ACT has researched over 16,000 occupations, and these three skills are highly important to the majority of jobs in the workplace.

Contextualization: Providing instruction for the development of skills, knowledge, and attitudes drawn from the context in which they will be used, using real-life materials and situations from that context. To provide "instruction on work-related reading, writing, or math abilities... using a mixture of material including work oriented instructional material or focusing on work oriented reading tasks (reading manuals, completing employment forms, etc...)".

- Lessons should be based on authentic problem solving. Students should "discover meaningful relationships in the context of the real world; concepts are internalized through the process of discovering, reinforcing and relating". #1
- Contextualized learning "helps teachers relate subject matter content to real world situations and motivates students to make connections between knowledge and it's application to their lives as family members, citizens, and workers, and to engage in the hard work that learning requires". #2, #3

Duplication of services: Providing identical services to the same individuals through the same or different funding streams at the same time. Example: an individual participant receiving GED preparation from two separate State funded programs at the same time.

Employability Skills: Basic skills necessary for getting, keeping, and doing well on a job. These skills are generic in nature rather than job specific and cut across all industry types, business sizes and job levels from entry level to senior positions. Employability skills are divided into three skills sets: (a) basic academic skills, (b) higher-order thinking skills, (c) personal qualities. These three skills sets can be broken down into more detailed skill sets:

Basic Academic Skills

Reading/ Comprehending
Writing
Science
Math
Oral Communication
Listening
Technology

Higher-Order Thinking Skills

Learning
Reasoning
Thinking Creatively
Decision Making
Problem Solving

Personal Qualities

Responsible; Honest

Enrollment: enrolled into the Adult Learner electronic data collection system(s).

LEA: Local Education Agency-A school district that is required to elect a local school board, to submit annual financial and pupil audit to MDE, to pay teachers and receives state school aid based upon pupil membership.

Modularization: Small units of learning with obvious achievement and end points. This supports the adult learner in accelerating and meeting goals. Examples are classes, tests, certificate programs or credit.

Navigator: The Navigator is a person or process responsible for assisting adult learners with access to wraparound services within an adult learning partnership and in the community in which they reside. These wrap-around services will focus on identifying and addressing the barriers impeding access to and progress through adult learning opportunities, including transportation, childcare, health care, housing and counseling.

Transforming Michigan's Adult Education System

The Navigator (person or process) will assist in creating an individualized education and training plan and pre-college advising. The Navigator will be well informed of all resources in the region that adult learners may access, including high demand employment sectors, levels of basic skills attainment, education and training required to advance within each career pathway. The Navigator will be employed by or contract with all members of the regions, maintaining regular contact with adult learners and staff at each site.

Partner: an entity that has a monetary investment in the success of the Adult Learner. Partners should be represented on the regional ALCB.

Pathway: The route by which a student travels from their individual starting point to the accomplishment of their goal or goals. Students may have academic, employment and personal goals and might also have distinct pathways to each area. The pathways are defined by the student with guidance from the Adult Learner advisor/ navigator. How these pathways intersect is documented in the student's Adult Learning Plan (ALP).

Range of services: Adult literacy and basic skills services, GED/HSC, conversational English, upgrading basic skills of adult workers for changes in workplace technology, improving adult workers competencies in speaking, listening, reading, writing, computing, reasoning and problem solving.

Transitional Services: Services provided to participants in an effort to align career plans and skills with appropriate resources and programs to ensure that participants can make the transition from Adult Basic Education (ABE) to postsecondary education and training. These services are offered to participants based on their needs and skill level to provide a seamless pathway from the participant's current educational or job training level to the next.

Transforming Michigan's Adult Education System

Transition Student: a high school graduate who is not ready for college and/or falls within one or more of the following categories: the unemployed; low-skilled incumbent workers; parents or caregivers with low basic skills.

Workplace Literacy: It is a skill set and training necessary for an individual employee to do his or her job.
